Tear Away Skirt

I used snap tape to allow for an easy “tear” effect as well as an easy reattachment. It took me a month to build from the very beginning of the mockup to the very end of the final build.

Sebastian's Belt

I used snaps attached to the belt and the coat to fully secure it because of the dancing the actor had to do in the show.

River Bride Deck Run

I got to be the production assistant for the Severson show The River Bride by Marisela Treviño Orta. This is the deck run for the show performances.

Bright Star Bridge

I got to use Henry to add texture to the project and then used a mixture of red and brown paint with a sponge to give the project a rusty look.

Lanterns

These are the lanterns I made for American Mariachi. I used foam, wood, and metal for the detailing. I also used a mixture of yellow, red, and brown food coloring for the glaze on the lantern.

Wax Dripping

I used Hot glue and construction paper to make the candles look like they had been burned before while not affecting the electricity inside the candles.

Paper props

I got to design different paper props for Elf. I made different office papers to be used in all the Greenway office scenes. I made a total of 40 individual papers.
